1675. Fine 23. Widow Auchinleck against Earl of Montesth.

In a pursuit at the widow's instance against the Earl for payment of a hundred and seventy seven pounds, as the price of a parcel of stuff and furniture, sold to his Lady for her abulziements, it was alleged for the Earl, that before that furniture was gotten off, he had served inhibition against the Lady. which was registered and made public, after which she was not capable to contract debt. It was replied, that the sum craved being for merchandise and necessary abulziements, the Lady being in want, the inhibition could not affect the same, nor put the pursuer in mala fide, especially being for so small a sum. The Lords did ordain the pursuer to give her outh, if the inhibition was particularly intimated to her, which she denied; and thereafter, having advised this as a common cause, did find, that the Earl was net liable, he proving, that he furnished the Lady sufficiently with clothes and other abultiements.

SANDS against Edmiston.

No 96. ...

ELIZABETH Sands having pursued her husband, who deserted her and went abroad, for adherence, upon the act of Parliament, and the bishop having refused to excommunicate him for non-adherence, that by virtue of that act she might have divorce; she did therefore apply to the Council for an aliment, and got it locally out of certain tenements of her husband's, and now pursues for mails and duties. It was alleged for Mr Robert Edmiston, That he had adjudged the tenements in question, and was thereupon infeft, and the act of Council could but import an assignation to the mails and duties, which ceased by an infeftment, though posterior, which the Lords found relevant,
