(Due by lucrati.)

1677. July 5. MR GEORGE GRAY against JAMES CUTHBERT.

No 93. In a conditio indebiti, tho' the Court would not allow of annualrent, they awarded a confiderable fum in name of damages, which was nearly equivalent.

In an action at Mr George Gray's instance, as having right by translation from Robert Gray of Skibo, who had made double payment of two feveral bonds to Cuthbert of Drackies, of one of them to himself, and thereafter of both bonds to Drackies' fon, as affignee by his father; did pursue the said Cuthbert of Drackies for repayment, not only of the principal fum, but of the whole annualrents due, not only for the principal, but for the annualrents fince payment.—It was alleged for the defender, That he could not be liable for the annualrent of these fums paid to him: 1mo, Because he being but an assignee, he had bona side received the same. 2do, Annualrents are only due ex lege vel pacto, and so are not liable in this case, where there is neither act of Parliament nor law to make the same due.—It was replied to the first, That the defender, albeit he was an affignee, yet being eldest son to his father, to whom the money was paid, et in familia paterna, and the person that in law represents him, he is liable as if the father himself had gotten twice payment, and so was not in bona fide.—It was replied to the fecond, That the bond which was twice paid, bearing annualrent, being twice paid, they are in as strong a case, as if it were lent money, and it must be presumed that indebite folutum, as founded upon that same principle with mutuum; and if it were not fo fustained, then quilibet potest lucrati ex suo dolo, by keeping monies free of annualrent for a long time, until they be recoatio, Annualrents are due pro damno et interesse.—The Lords having well confidered this cafe, did find, That by our law and practique annualrents were not due; but upon that ground that they might modify pro damno et interesse, they did decern the double of the whole fums which were indebted paid, to be repaid, which did not amount to the full annualrent of the principal fum.

Fol. Dic. v. 1. p. 43. Gosford, MS. No 992.

No 94. Found in conformity with the above.

1678. July 30. SIR ADAM BLAIR against JAMES GILMOUR.

Its a repetition of a fum paid by him as one of the King's receivers, when it was paid before.—The Lords would not fustain the condictio for annualrents, because they are only due ex pacto et lege, and the King's use of payment was only of his bounty; yet modified a sum in name of damage and interest.

Fol. Dic. v. 1. p. 43. Fountainhall, MS.

 In the case, Lockhart against Ellies, No 41. p. 504. found, That money bona fide uplisted, is to be restored without interest, though the money belong to a minor.