1726. Fuly. Hawthorn against Ureuhart.

The Lords would have found it relevant to assoilzie the defender, that the goods were gifted to him by the person who took them off for his behoof; but as donatio non presumitur, he was found liable, in respect he could bring no evidence of the alleged donation. See Appendix.

Fol Die. v. 2: p. $3^{17}$.

1728 Novomber 29. Trall of Sabae against Moodir.
A wife having a liferent, constituted by locality, was indaced to consent to seweral heritable debts, contracted by her husband, whereby her hiferent, after his death, became in some measure ineffectual; upon this the question arose, Whether the relset had recourse against her husband's beit, in so fat as she was prejudged, by wiedding preference to her husband's creditors? That a reconarse was competeat, was argued frond the natore of the transaction, that, by the wife's conseat to the prefercace of the creditors, no simple or absolute gift wos designed, either to the husband or his creditors; that nothing was intended further than to grant a security to the creditors; it was the same with respece to the husband, whether this was done, as in the present case, by consenaing to a preferemce, or if she had directly impignoratect her liferemt-lands; and, thepefore, from the natare of the thing that recompense is doe. Thn Lords fourrd, That the liferentrix had a competent action against the heir of the husband for the damage she sustained for the want of her liferent, by consenting to the preference of her husband's creditors. See No 9. p. 13405.

Fol. Dic. v. 2. p. 3I7.
1738. fanuaay 4

Trosfezs of Colonel Johnston's Cifeditors afrainse The Gremtoks:
A gentleman incumbered with debts, haxing conveyed his effects to certain trustees, for the use and behoof of his creditors, and they having accordingly entered upon the management, and converted the effects into money, in a compt and reckoning betwixt them and the creditors, the Eoriss found, That trustees are not entithed in law to demand any fee of reward for their pains. Siee Appindix.

Fol. Dic. v. 2. p. 3F\%

