DECISION

Decisions of the tribunal

- (1) The tribunal determines that it has no jurisdiction to determine any of the matters it has been requested to determine by an application purportedly made under S27a of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1985 dated 5 February 2019.

The application

1. The Applicant seeks determinations purportedly pursuant to S27A of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1985 (“the 1985 Act”) of the liability of the landlord and/or tenant to pay certain sums of money.
2. The relevant legal provisions are set out in the Appendix to this decision.

The hearing

3. These sums of money were initially thought by the tribunal to relate to service charges and directions for the progress of the case were issued on 7 February 2019. These provided for a determination to be made on the papers, directed to be submitted, in the week commencing 13 May 2019 unless either party requested an oral hearing which neither party did. The tribunal considered the documents submitted on 13 May 2019.

The background

4. The property which is the subject of this application is a two bedroomed self-contained flat on the ground floor of a Victorian terraced house which has been converted into three flats.
5. Neither party requested an inspection and the tribunal did not consider that one was necessary, nor would it have been proportionate to the issues in dispute.
6. The Applicant holds a long lease of the property which requires the landlord to provide services and the tenant to contribute towards their costs by way of a variable service charge.

The issues

7. From the documents submitted it is now clear that what the applicant tenant is seeking is a declaration from the tribunal that certain damp proofing works carried out on behalf of the tenant at his own expense in 2014 and 2017 were in fact the landlord’s liability under the lease and that the landlord should reimburse the tenant. The tenant also sought a tribunal determination that a sum of £294.66 demanded from him by the landlord in 2015 said to be to repair “wilful damage” caused to the entry intercom installation by the tenant was not payable by him.

8. Having read the evidence and submissions from the parties and considered all of the documents provided, the tribunal has decided that it has no jurisdiction to determine these issues for the reasons given below.

Jurisdiction

9. The tribunal’s justifications arise out of Acts of Parliament. S27A of the Act gives the tribunal jurisdiction to determine the reasonableness of and the liability to pay a service charge under the provisions of a lease which permit a landlord to recover the costs of fulfilling his obligations in respect of a building from the tenants of the building. Sums paid out by a tenant to a contractor he has engaged to undertake damp-proofing works to a flat he holds on a long lease are not a service charge. Whether or not those works were the obligation of the landlord to undertake under the provisions of the lease with the costs to be recovered through a service charge is not an issue which the Act gives this tribunal jurisdiction to decide.
10. The money demanded of the tenant by the landlord in respect of alleged damage to the door entry intercom is again not a service charge. It is not the tenant’s service charge share of the cost of a repair carried out by the landlord; it is the whole amount claimed as a result of what was said to be wilful damage by the tenant. Whether the landlord had any right to make such a claim under the provisions of the lease is not in point nor that the sum might have been recovered as part of a judgement sum awarded in the County Court in 2018; it is clearly not a service charge and again the tribunal has no jurisdiction in respect of this item.
11. The application has clearly been misconceived and must be dismissed together with the linked applications for Orders under S20C of the Act and Paragraph 5A of Schedule 11 of the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002.

ANNEX - RIGHTS OF APPEAL

1. If a party wishes to appeal this decision to the Upper Tribunal (Lands Chamber) then a written application for permission must be made to the First-tier Tribunal at the Regional office which has been dealing with the case.
2. The application for permission to appeal must arrive at the Regional office within 28 days after the Tribunal sends written reasons for the decision to the person making the application.
3. If the application is not made within the 28 day time limit, such application must include a request for an extension of time and the reason for not complying with the 28 day time limit; the Tribunal will then look at such reason(s) and decide whether to allow the application for permission to appeal to proceed despite not being within the time limit.
4. The application for permission to appeal must identify the decision of the Tribunal to which it relates (i.e. give the date, the property and the case number), state the grounds of appeal, and state the result the party making the application is seeking.
