

Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA)

Decision notice

Date: 17 January 2018

Public Authority: Home Office
Address: 2 Marsham Street
London
SW1P 4DF

Decision (including any steps ordered)

1. The complainant has requested information from the Home Office regarding escapes from Immigration Removal Centre's.
2. The Commissioner's decision is that the Home Office has breached section 10(1) of the FOIA as it has failed to give a substantive response to the request within the reasonable timeframe specified by section 10(3).
3. The Commissioner requires the public authority to take the following steps to ensure compliance with the legislation.
 - The Home Office must issue a substantive response to the request in accordance with its obligations under the FOIA.
4. The public authority must take these steps within 35 calendar days of the date of this decision notice. Failure to comply may result in the Commissioner making written certification of this fact to the High Court pursuant to section 54 of the Act and may be dealt with as a contempt of court.

Request and response

5. On 3 May 2017, the complainant wrote to the Home Office and requested information in the following terms:

"Please can you provide information about escapes from Immigration Removal Centres (IRCs) between 12 May 2010 and 13 July 2016?"

I would like to know:

- The date and location (IRC name) of each escape,
- how many people got out in each escape,
- when each of those people were recaptured or if they are still at large"

6. The Home Office responded on 20 July 2017. It told the complainant that some of the information he had requested was being considered under the exemption in section 31(1)(f) which relates to law enforcement and the maintenance of security and good order in prisons or other detention facilities. Due to this being a qualified exemption the Home Office needed to consider the public interest test so they were extending the 20 day response period.
7. Despite the complainant chasing the Home Office for a response a substantive response has not been issued.

Scope of the case

8. The complainant contacted the Commissioner on 25 October 2017 to complain about the way his request for information had been handled.
9. Following receipt of the complaint the Commissioner contacted the Home Office, reminding it of its responsibilities and asking it to respond to the complainant within 10 working days.
10. Despite this intervention the Home Office has failed to respond to the complainant.

Reasons for decision

11. Section 10(1) of the FOIA states that an authority must comply with section 1(1) of the FOIA '...promptly and in any event not later than the twentieth working day following the date of receipt'. However, section 10(3) enables an authority to extend the 20 working day limit up to a 'reasonable' time in cases where the public interest test attached to the application of a qualified exemption is being considered.

12. The FOIA does not define what constitutes a 'reasonable' extension of time. It is the view of the Commissioner that an authority should normally take no more than an additional 20 working days to consider the public interest test, meaning that the total time spent dealing with the request should not exceed 40 working days.
13. The Commissioner has found that the time taken to produce a substantive response to this request considerably exceeds the 40 working days and is therefore not reasonable. She has therefore decided that the Home Office has breached section 10(1) of the FOIA.
